“ When I first met Allen of course it was at a ballgame at mine and Kirbys house we built with Joe Gilley,Ray Davis,and many more because Allen didn't meet strangers.He was a stranger to me though and he was younger so every word he said was yes mam no mam etc you get the picture of how this sweet human being was and from then on It didn't matter if it was a year or a day he still loved and respected you like he did the first time I met him.The best times was times when He and His sidekick would come in Moore's to eat bfast every am and they ate every am together.Well I lost Kirby to cancer and in those years and went into a bad depression well who got me outta that besides God Allen and Ray.Yes,I say Allen and Ray a lot because I never seen one without the other.I Thank you Allen for your friendship as yes you and Ray got me back on and Allen was one of the best friends anyone can ask for so Kirby I hope you met Allen with open arms and I can see his big smile now.God Bless the Crowe Family.Love you all.

“ The first time I met Allen, he had thrown a belt on his Caprice. I was 16 at the time but I knew to help folks that broke down. After him and Gates hopped in my old car, I headed toward the park and asked where he needed to go to get a belt and tools. "Up here to the shop." "Wheres that at, I just met ya man." His reply was "how do you know we ain't killers?" I'm sure the look on my face cracked him up because he couldn't hold a straight face. Allen never had a cross word, and was always positive. He could always make you think towards the better side of things. Always made my day better talking with him. I pray the family finds peace.

“ There's not a soul I have met as beautiful as Allen's.

I cannot count the times Allen was there for me. Whether it was helping me move, fix a car, make sense out of life or just being there as a friend.

I'll never forget the first time I ever went to a casino. He took me. I was so sick but I had took off work to go. So I pushed through it with coffee and day quil. We made it there. We sat down by a few older women smoking cigars. I was already coughing my head off and congested but it was packed and that was about the only two seats close together that were available.

They had just moved down and we moved to the machines they were on. I almost immediately won 60$ and then a little more playing nickels and he nor I couldn't believe it. Neither could they because they were giving us a death glare for the rest of the night every time we seen them. We would joke about how they were following us around because we kept seeing them and they still had that look, haha.

There was one time when I had a blow out south of Tupelo. My spare had gone flat

(my luck). I got a ride home and the next day Allen and I went out there to handle it. We pulled over to my car and got the spare to go fill it up. When Allen tried to crank his truck something sparked around the battery and smoke started coming out. I don't really remember what happened but something shorted out! Needless to say we ended up going about 3 miles an hour down the exit ramp in my car to the gas station. Filled up the spare and changed the tire and had to go back to Booneville to acquire tools to fix his truck now. It was a day for the books.

It said to share a memory. I have many but these to where toppers.

My condolences to the family and friends of Allen. If there is anything I can do I will.

Kindly,
LeAnnea (Smith) Furtick
