“ My memory of Mr Hopkins is the first day I moved my wife and four children into the house right across the street from him he came over and knocked on the door and my little girl answered the door and he asked her if she could go find some pantyhose that her mother had in the laundry room.

When Lynn Napier moved next door at the age of 24 she looked a lot like Britney Spears he knocked on her door and asked her if she had a pair of pantyhose so that he could make a mousetrap.

The excuse he used when my little girl answered the door for the pantyhose was he was trying to repair the lint filter for his dryer that had a hole in it.

When I was framed in the 2013 Presidential assassination plot, Mike coppin's was the only person that lived on our street that spoke to news people bashing me to hell and back and then had the nerve to say he did not like my singing.

I hope there is no singing or karaoke where he is now
